Lincoln Days Art Show Juror: Jesse Ray Sims is an award-winning fine artist-illustrator-muralist working in various mediums on 2 and 3 dimensional art, clay, sculpture and mural projects. He was a semi-finalist in the 2008-2010 Lincoln Bicentennial Sculpture Project for “The Boy Lincoln”.

Jesse’s work reflects his experiences as an architectural draftsman and is inspired by both the rural landscapes and urban sprawl that is Kentucky. He enjoys working with school students and endeavors to teach the vital connections between science, math and art.

This year the prestigious Tanne Foundation presented Sims an award recognizing his artistic work and achievement.
